

Mrs. Sickly — "Oh, dear Anty Drudge, don't think I'm lazy, neglecting my wash this way, but I sprained my back lifting the washboard this morning and I can't move for the pain."

Anty Drudge — "I don't think you're lazy. I think you're plain foolish. The idea of boiling and hard-rubbing clothes when you can use Fels-Naptha Soap and have an easy day."

Throw away your wash boiler and try Anty Drudge's way. Soap your clothes well with Fels-Naptha and put them in cool or lukewarm water for about thirty minutes while you do something else.

Come back, rub them lightly, rinse and hang them out. Then go and sit down for a few minutes before you have to get dinner, and think how easy your washing was today.

EDWARD AMHERST OTT.

The popular lectures which Edward Amherst Ott is giving on the Lyceum platform are bearing fruit in the way of advanced legislation for the betterment of the American people. His lecture on "Sour Grapes," which treats of marriage and divorce, has been given nearly 2,000 times. In one of the states where it was given the legislator who introduced a reform marriage bill said he got his inspiration to do so from hearing Mr. Ott's lecture. But, whether he delivers this lecture or one of his other subjects, he is always alike forceful, entertaining and inspiring. He has appeared before more than 3,000 audiences in America, and more than 2,500 copies of his books have been sold. American audiences can scarce get enough of this man and his purposeful oratory. Every lecture should answer one of the fundamental inquiries of the mind. If a lecture is also humorous and highly entertaining, so much the better. Although known as the purposeful orator and author, Mr. Ott combines much of humor and entertainment in each of his lectures.

In 1910 Mr. Ott appeared at the original New York Chautauqua in two lectures. For two years Mr. Ott was president of the International Lyceum Association, and he has done much for the Lyceum and Chautauqua movement in general throughout the country.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON

MOSES CALLED TO SERVICE.

Exodus 3:1-14—July 20.

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."—Matthew 5:8.

MOSES was forty years old when he fled from Pharaoh, discouraged. He was eighty years old when God called him to be leader of Israel. The first forty years were an ordinary schooling; the last forty, a special schooling in meekness. He was now ready for service at exactly the time when God wished to use him. So thoroughly discouraged had he become that he who was so ready to lead the hosts of Israel without a special Divine commission was now so distrustful of himself that even when called of God he apologized, pleading his unfitness, etc. He did not realize that he had only then become fit.

Moses was tending Jethro's flocks, and perhaps considering how wise it was that forty years before he had been unsuccessful in arousing his brethren to flee from Egypt. He could now see, in the light of maturer years, what a herculean task he would have had as their leader. He could better understand the difficulties that would have attended his people in the wilderness journey and also in attempting to take possession of the land of Canaan. Quite possibly he philosophized that people unfitted to be delivered were wise in remaining in bondage.

The Burning Bush Consumed Not. Thus meditating, while his flocks pastured on the mountainside, Moses caught sight of something most unusual. A bush was afire, yet it was not consumed. Moses approached the bush to investigate. From it came a voice, declaring the phenomenon to be a manifestation of God's presence and power. Moses obeyed the command to take off his sandals, for it was holy ground, by reason of the presence of the Angel of the Lord. Moses then covered his face in reverence, while he listened to the Divine message.

The statement, "I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob," brought to this instructed man of God a clear understanding of what was signified by his experience. By it God reminded him of the Covenant which He had made with Abraham, and renewed with Isaac, and confirmed to Jacob for an everlasting covenant. Thus Moses learned that God's time had come for the deliverance of Israel and for their attainment of the Land of Promise—Canaan.

If Moses had ever wondered whether God really cared for the Israelites and why He had permitted them to be oppressed by the Egyptians, he now had God's own assurance that He did care, and that He had a purpose in withholding so long. The Lord's explanation closed with an invitation to Moses to be His servant and messenger to Pharaoh, calling upon him to liberate the captive Israelites.

"Certainly I Will Be With Thee." Then Moses, who forty years before was full of confidence and courage, and ready to lead the Israelites, but who now was lacking in self-confidence, replied to the Lord, "Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?" This meant, I am a failure; with all the educational advantages that I had, I am fit for nothing better than to be a sheep-tender.

God's reply was: "Surely I will be with thee." I shall not expect you to do it yourself. I realize that it is a mighty work. By way of emphasis, the Lord declared that not only should Moses lead the people forth, but they should worship God in that very mountain.

Moses, remembering his previous failure, was cautious. He inquired what response he should make if the Israelites should inquire which God had sent him. The Divine response was that God's name is, "I AM THAT I AM"—the self-existent One. But Moses was so distrustful of himself that he urged that the Egyptians would not let the people go, and that the Israelites themselves would not believe that God had really appeared to Moses.

Answering these objections, the Lord gave Moses certain signs, convincing him that he was talking to the Omnipotent, and assured him that these signs would convince the Israelites, and also the Egyptians.

So meek was Moses that although he fully believed the Lord and trusted His power, he could not feel competent to do this great work. Humility, lack of self-confidence, meekness, had become so pronounced in him that he feared that even if he should be used, some one else might be the spokesman. God heard his request and granted that he should have his brother Aaron for a companion and mouth-piece before Pharaoh.

Humility is a quality most essential to all Christians who would be used of the Lord. Let us say with the poet, "I'll go where You want me to go, dear Lord, Over mountain, or plain, or sea; I'll say what You want me to say, dear Lord, I'll be what You want me to be."

DEPARTING FROM OLD TRADITIONS

High Schools Aid In Developing Kentucky Fruit Growing.

COOPERATED BY ONE FLOT.

Extensive Apple Growing Associations Launched in Rowan and Hardin Counties—Movement Means Wider Use of Agriculture and Horticulture in Rural High Schools of the State.

The present year has seen a great impetus given to the fruit growing interests in Kentucky. Two different sections of the state have launched extensive co-operative apple growing associations. Both in Rowan and in Hardin counties the work has been helped and developed by our state department of agriculture. The department has furnished these counties

60,000 NEWLY GRAFTED APPLE TREES, with four standard varieties of apple trees free of charge and has also agreed to advise and train the members of the association in the care and general cultivation of the young trees and orchards during the next five years.

When the newly grafted young trees were received by the association in Rowan county they were divided among the members, to be placed in home gardens for the summer's growth. In Hardin county it was decided best to plant and cultivate the 60,000 young trees in one nursery plot. While plans were being discussed as to the best place and manner of caring for this nursery work the agricultural class of the county high school offered to take the trees and carry them through the summer until transplanting time next autumn.

Just next to the high school at Elizabethtown a fertile piece of sod land was broken and carefully prepared for the tender young stock. The day the planting took place was made something of a gala day for the students, especially as two experts from the state agricultural station, a government expert and a Louisville newspaper man came to inspect the work.

When the 60,000 trees, enough to set 1,500 acres, were stacked in the side yard they did not look as if they would require much time to plant. But after the bundles were opened and tiny bunches that could be held in one hand were seen to contain seventy-five or a hundred small trees the boys stared first at the bundles and then at the well worked ground.

The splendid part of this work lies in the fact that the high school is stepping outside of the old, narrow, dusty limits of educational tradition and is doing something of very definite value for the community. It will undoubtedly be of great benefit to the boys who do the work, their fathers, their friends and neighbors, in gaining a new viewpoint of what education will mean in the coming years.

The development of Kentucky's resources should be the first aim of every citizen, and when the enormous practical value of this work is realized it will give a great impetus to every form of agricultural endeavor.

If this work is a pronounced success this year it will naturally mean a wider use of agriculture and horticulture in our rural high schools over the whole state. When this comes it will also mean that each community will be willing to put much larger sums of money into its school than it has in the past. Let us hope that many high schools will follow this splendid start.
